Managers of the Bedford Reformatory assert that most of the charges of cruelty in the institution are absurd, and that they do not even intend to reply to the Delahey and Diedling charges, alleging unusual cruelty has been practised on the inmates. James Wood, of Mount Kisco, president of the board of managers, last night said helieved there was an ulterior motive back of the charges.

elections to-morrow morning. Under the door of each delegate has been a slipped to-night a leaflet entitled "Facts concerning certain candidates for the national board." The leaflet advocates Miss Jean Gordon, of Louisiana, for first vice-president: Miss Anne Martin, of Nevada, for recording secretary, and Miss Zona Gale, of Wisconsin, for second auditor. The minority party has been making a strong plea for representation on the national board. This party opposes the Shafroth amendment and is somewhat sympathetic with the policy of using the votes women already have against any political party in power at Washington which obstructs suffrage legislation. This faction believes that the candidates named in the leaflet should be on the board to represent their views and their spirit.

This afternoon there was another great mass meeting at Ryman's Auditorium. The big hall was crowded beyond its proper capacity. Miss Jane Addams pointed out that women's activities started many charitable enterprises and conducted them until they became so successful that they were taken over by the government. Then women were considered no longer capable of even helping.

The other speeches of the afternoon all turned on the war and the terribiburdens always thrust upon women by war.
